Description:

Ruramwanja Rural Foundation (RRF) is a grassroots initiative based in rural Uganda, committed to empowering local communities, particularly displaced populations, youth, and women through permaculture, sustainable agriculture, and digital learning. RRF fosters resilience by integrating ecological regeneration with economic empowerment.

Mission:

To empower communities through regenerative practices that restore ecosystems and enhance food and livelihood security.

Vision:

A resilient and self-reliant rural population living in harmony with nature.

Core Project Focus:

- Permaculture education and design
- Mushroom farming and value addition
- Youth empowerment through digital literacy
- Women-led economic initiatives
- Sustainable community infrastructure

SECTION D: Partnership Areas of Interest

☐ Permaculture and Regenerative Agriculture

Engaging communities in sustainable farming practices that restore ecosystems, build soil health, improve food security, and empower local livelihoods through ecological design.

☐ Mushroom Cultivation and Training

Training youth and women in edible and medicinal mushroom farming, value addition, and income generation, particularly in refugee and low-income rural settings.

☐ Digital Education (E-learning / Remote training / ICT tools)

Promoting digital inclusion by offering skills in remote education, online tools, content development, and ICT infrastructure support, focusing on underserved and displaced communities.

☐ Youth Empowerment and Skills Training

Empowering youth through practical training, entrepreneurship, vocational skills, and leadership development in agriculture, environment, and technology sectors.

☐ Women's Empowerment

Enhancing women's economic independence, decision-making capacity, and leadership through regenerative livelihoods, cooperatives, and inclusive education programs.

☐ Environmental Sustainability

Supporting projects that combat climate change, conserve biodiversity, promote agroecology, and integrate nature-based solutions into refugee and rural development initiatives.
